BETHLEHEM (AP) — From the birthplace of Christ, Pope Paul VI appealed to world leaders today to keep peace in the world and for Christians to unite.

Packing history into the last day of his three-day pilgrimage of peace to the Holy Land, the supreme pontiff of 550 million Roman Catholics returned to Jerusalem to join Patriarch Athenagoras I, spiritual leader of world orthodoxy, in praying that their meetings will be a "prelude of things to come for the glory of God."

These were the final highlights of the Pope's unprecedented visit to the Holy Land, for then he drove to Amman, the Jordan capital, and flew back home.

As his historic three-day pilgrimage in the Holy Land neared its end, the 66-year-old pontiff issued greetings of good will to all men—Christian and non-believer. Departing from his prepared text, he called on the world's chiefs of state to press for peace.

The Pope urged Roman Catholics to do all they can to revitalize their Church in the quest for unity and appealed to non-Catholic Christians to join in the cause.

"Today the will of Christ is pressing upon us and obliging us to do all that we can, with love and wisdom, to bring to all Christians the supreme blessing and honor of a united church," he said.

The Pope journeyed the winding road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem on the Feast of Epiphany, commemorating the visit of the three Wise Men to the manger and the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. Pope Paul was the first Roman pontiff known to have visited the spot of the Nativity. Thousands thronged the town of Christ's birth for the pontiff's historic visit and for Orthodox Christmas Eve services starting three hours after the Pope's visit. But Jordanian troops and police took extraordinary precautions to prevent the mob scene that threatened the Pope's safety in the old city of Jerusalem Saturday.

Coils of barbed wire, iron barriers and rows of armed troops ringed Manger Square outside the Church of the Nativity. Police and troops closed the winding road from Jerusalem long before the Pope's arrival, and only about 2,000 children and other spectators were allowed in the square. But surrounding rooftops and streets were jammed.

Robed in red, Pope Paul stopped to enter the doorway of the old church—less than four feet high—and descended the 16 worn steps to the grotto of the Nativity to celebrate Mass. The pontiff knelt at the chapel of the manger in the cave, 34 feet by 12 feet. Nearby, sunk in the marble floor, was the 14-point Silver Star of Bethlehem which tradition says marks the spot where Christ was born.

The Pope's voice was loud and resonant as he uttered the ancient words of the Mass. Loudspeakers carried it to the crowd in the church above and to the throng outside. After the Mass, the Pope moved on to the adjoining Church of St. Catherine to make the major address of his Holy Land visit.

"This is the historic hour in which the Church must live her profound and visible unity," the Pope said.

"It is the hour in which we must correspond with the wish of Jesus Christ 'that they may be perfectly one, so that the world may know, Father, that it is Thou Who has sent me.'"

The pontiff reiterated what the late Pope John XXIII had made clear when he called the Vatican Ecumenical Council for Christian unity — that the Roman Catholic Church would not abandon what it considers basic truths.

"Yet we declare once again," said Pope Paul, "that we are ready to consider every reasonable possibility 'y' which mutual understanding, respect and charity may be fostered so as to smooth the way to a future —and, please God, not too distant—meeting with our Christian brothers still separated from us."

In words that he apparently added at the last minute, the Pope addressed the leaders of

If He Found It to Our Advantage

Goldwater Would Renounce A-Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater launches his campaign for the White House tonight—after vowing that if he gets there and finds it "to our advantage" he will renounce the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The Arizona senator, his sights trained on the Republican presidential nomination, makes his first speech as a candidate tonight before a GOP fund-raising dinner in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Tuesday he turns to the top target in his quest for the nomination: New Hampshire. Goldwater plans to spend three days there, campaigning Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for votes in the March 10 presidential primary, the nation's first of 1964.

Goldwater got in a dig Sunday night at his only announced rival for the nomination, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"Gov. Rockefeller is used to giving money away and I'm not, that's the difference," Goldwater said in calling for revision of the U.N. charter to force its members to pay their dues or lose their votes.

Goldwater also took a crack at President Johnson, calling his government economy drive a show with little substance.

"He is putting up a good front," the senator said. "The neon lights are blinking and the tilt balls are rolling, but he is not an economist."

Goldwater, one of 19 senators who voted against ratification of the treaty that outlaws nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space, said in the NBC television interview program "Meet the Press" that his vote on the test ban was sound.

"I still think it is of no advantage to the United States," he said. "...The treaty had more accrual of good to the Soviets than it did to the United States..."

"But if you were President and you were able to renounce the treaty, would you do it?" he was asked.

"If it appeared to be to our advantage to test in the atmosphere, yes, I would do it," he said.

Despite his stand on the treaty, Goldwater said he would not close the door on disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Goldwater said the United States could not "live in the United Nations with the charter having been ignored by Red Chi-

Rocky Denies 'Me-Too' Label

Governor Levels Fire on Goldwater

ALBANY N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says that if the Republican party nominates him for president, he will offer voters a clear alternative to Democratic party philosophy.

"There are fundamental differences between my views and (Democratic) views," he said in reply to a charge by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that Rockefeller is a "me-too" candidate.

Rockefeller and Goldwater are the only declared candidates for the Republican nomination.

Goldwater announced his candidacy Friday and opened his campaign by saying Rockefeller's views sound more like a Democratic platform than Republican philosophy.

Goldwater, chief spokesman for GOP conservatives, said no other Republican candidate — meaning Rockefeller — could offer voters a genuine alternative to the Democratic administration of President Johnson.

Rockefeller, who resumed his campaign in the New Hampshire presidential preference primary over the weekend, told a news conference in Concord: "I don't think that 'me-too' label has any application (to me)...I think that was just a political statement on his part."

Goldwater begins his New Hampshire campaign officially Tuesday.

His assertion that Rockefeller espouses a New Frontier philosophy could become an issue in New Hampshire, where Republican ranks include a substantial bloc of conservatives.

Rockefeller knows his reputation as a liberal could be troublesome in New Hampshire. His first major political speech in this campaign contained a detailed analysis of his "fundamental differences" with Democrats on such issues as balanced budgets and centralized government.

Rockefeller indicated at a news conference he would concentrate his immediate fire on Goldwater, avoiding specific criticism of the Johnson administration. He said Johnson had not produced concrete results on which to make a judgment.

$116,726 Paid Last Year

City's Bond Debt Is $1,955,400

A bonded indebtedness of $1,955,400.67 was carried over from 1963 into the new year, Auditor Helen Coyne revealed today in her annual report.

The total is $116,726.20 lower than the total indebtedness at the beginning of 1963. A total of $129,205.92 of the indebtedness was paid during '63, with $55,896.43 paid in interest.

The total indebtedness includes $1,657,000 in utility bonds (sewer and water bonds); $71,857.32 in special assessment bonds (property owners share of street improvements) and $226,543.35 in general obligation bonds (issued for city hall construction, storm sewers, city share of street improvements, street sweeper and grader, and the parking lot at Pershing St. and Penn Ave.)

Bonds for the street sweeper and grader and city hall construction will expire this year, the auditor said.

During 1963 $80,000 was paid on the utilities bonds, $41,736.30 was paid on the general obligation bonds and $7,469.62 was paid on the special assessment bonds.

The city incurred $12,479.72 indebtedness during the year for special assessments bonds and notes, which includes property owners' share of street improvements.

Total indebtedness of the city at the beginning of 1962 was $2,174,625.80.

E. German Reds Close Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists sealed the Berlin wall again today, ending 17 days of joyous family reunions and heart-breaking partings.

A record number of more than a quarter million West Berliners poured into the Communist zone Sunday — the last day for visits under a Christmas agreement negotiated between the West Berlin city government and the Communist East German regime. The crossings started Dec. 19.

The crush was so big that tens of thousands returning to West Berlin were still waiting at the snow-covered Communist checkpoints when the visiting period expired at midnight.

Authorities said 1,318,000 permits were issued for crossings, but many West Berliners made several trips.

"The honeymoon is over," observed a Westerner.

But there were flickering hopes the West Berlin government could negotiate a new agreement with the Reds in talks scheduled to start this

Three Are Hospitalized

10 Persons Are Injured In Weekend Traffic Mishaps

Three persons were hospitalized and seven others received minor injuries in district highway accidents over the weekend. Seven of those hurt are from Columbiana County. Five motorists, including two juveniles, were cited.

A New Waterford area father and his teen-age son were hurt along with three members of a Mahoning County family in a two-car crash south of Columbiana on Route 164 near Theron's Market Saturday morning at 11:30.

Taken to Salem City Hospital were:

Lawrence Bable, 35, of RD 1, New Waterford, driver of one car, cerebral concussion.

His son, James L. Bable, 14, multiple severe lacerations of the face and right knee and fractured right wrist.

Thurman H. Severs, 50, of Poland, driver of the second car, lacerations of the lower lip and broken dental plate.

His wife, Joyce Severs, 45, extensive lacerations of the forehead.

Their daughter, Darla Severs, 16, contusions of both legs. Mrs. Severs was reported to be in fairly good condition while the Bable youth is listed as fair. Both were admitted at 1 p.m. The other three were treated and released.

The Lisbon Post of the State Highway Patrol said the Severs family was traveling south toward Lisbon when Bable pulled from a parking lot into the path of the Poland auto. Both cars were extensively damaged and Bable was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

A Salem area couple received minor injuries in another two-car mishap Saturday at 2 p.m. on Route 164, three miles south of Route 165.

Glenn O. Robbins, 41, of RD 3, Franklin Square Rd., received a back injury, and his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Robbins, 42, suffered contusions of the knee and forehead. They were treated by a family physician.

Robbins was driving north on Route 164, the Canfield Patrol stated, when a car operated by Jeannette Mae Hart, 26, of RD 1, Columbiana, traveling south, turned left into a private drive in front of the Robbins auto. Mrs. Hart told the Patrol she did not see the oncoming Salem car. She was cited for failing to yield the right of way.

A 17-year-old East Liverpool youth is in uncertain condition, wavering between poor and fairly good, at East Liverpool City Hospital after a one-car accident Sunday at 12:45 a.m. that also slightly injured the driver, Donald Eiferd, 17, of RD, East Liverpool, on a winding county road near their homes.

The hospital reported William Miller, riding with Eiferd, is in "guarded" condition after he suffered a possible fractured skull and lacerations of the left side of the skull. Eiferd was treated for lower lip cuts and released.

Eiferd told the Patrol he was driving north in his new Ford on a winding stretch of County Rd. 435, just outside East Liverpool's northern limits. A car with lights out was straddled sideways across the road, the youth related, and he applied his brakes, causing him to skid on an icy patch. The out-of-control car veered off the right side of the pavement, careened to the left side and hit an embankment, and returned to the right side, striking a tree. Eiferd was not cited.

Treated After Crash

A Wellsville woman was treated by her physician for a sprained ankle after a collision between her husband's car and one from near Lisbon Sunday at 3:30 p.m. on Route 172 at the intersection of Camp Rd., about four miles west of the Route 30 junction.

Laverne Kraft, 35, of Wellsville was hurt when a car operated by her husband, Robert S. Kraft, 40, was struck by a car driven by Donald E. Phillips, 19, of RD 4, Lisbon. The Patrol said Phillips pulled from a stop sign on Camp Rd. into the path of the eastbound Kraft auto. The youth was cited for failing to yield the right of way.

Two county youths were cited to Juvenile Court, but both escaped injury in two separate county mishaps Sunday afternoon.

Ordered to appear before Juvenile Judge Louis A. Tobin were Charles Pelley, 16, of RD 1, Wellsville, and Timothy R. Parker, 16, of RD 2, Minerva.

Pelley was involved in a two-car crash Sunday at 6 p.m. on Route 45, about three miles north of Wellsville. Pelley, the patrol said, was driving south when he rounded a left curve, struck a patch of ice and went left of center, striking a northbound auto operated by Oliver Broughton, 49, of Wellsville.

Four Ohio Judges To Be Candidates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Four Ohio Supreme Court judges announced in a joint statement today as candidates for nomination in the May 5 primary election.

Judges Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield, a Democrat, and Judge C. William O'Neill of Columbus and Marietta, a Republican, seek full six-year terms.

Judges Lynn B. Griffith of Warren and Rankin Gibson of Columbus, both Democrats, seek unexpired terms. They are appointees of former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Griffith, appointed in 1962, seeks to serve out the term ending Dec. 31, 1966. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Judge James F. Bell. Gibson, appointed last January, is aiming for a term expiring Jan. 1, 1967. That post was vacated when Judge Kingsley A. Taft resigned upon his election as chief justice.

Zimmerman has been on the high bench since his appointment in 1933. He is serving his fifth full term. O'Neill, former governor with a record of 23 years in elective public service, was elected to an unexpired term in 1960.

Bulgarian Who Spied For U. S. Executed

LONDON (AP)—The Bulgarian News Agency has reported the execution of Ivan Asen Christof Georgiev, former Bulgarian envoy to the U.N. who confessed he sold military and economic secrets to the American Central Intelligence Agency for $200,000.

The prosecution claimed the envoy spent most of the morning on mistresses, including some supplied by the CIA.

Georgiev went on trial in Sofia Dec. 26. He pleaded guilty to selling secrets to the CIA between 1956 and 1961 while serving as counselor on the Bulgarian U.N. delegation in New York and later as an official of various government agencies.

The news service said sentence was carried out after Georgiev's appeal for a pardon was denied. He was sentenced to die before a firing squad.

Ashtabula Business Places Are Bombed

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—The Ashtabula County Savings & Loan Co. and a drive-in store were bomb targets early today of what police believe were vandals. No injuries were reported.

The first blast occurred at the savings and loan office and shattered three big front windows. No attempt was made to enter the safe.

A short time later a bomb exploded in front of the drive-in store on South Main Street, damaging the front of the building.

Detectives said it appeared dynamite was used in both cases, although an investigation into the type of explosive charge continued. FBI agents were called in since the savings and loan company was involved.

One police investigator said vandals may have been responsible for the blasts and they may be linked to the long strike at the Ashtabula Molded Fiber Body Co.

Merry Trip

Returning College Students Whoop It Up on Train

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Coming back to school after Christmas vacation was a lot more fun than leaving for the holidays, as far as several hundred Miami University students are concerned.

When the students left on a special New York Central System train Dec. 20, equipment failures caused them to be 11 hours late in reaching Cleveland.

The railroad decided to make it up to the students on the way back for classes, which started today.

So when the train left Cleveland Sunday, it contained two extra cars—an empty baggage car for dancing to a four-piece jazz combo and a car loaded with inexpensive sandwiches, potato chips, milk and other refreshments.

The train arrived at 9:25 p.m., about half an hour late. But nobody seemed to mind after the merry trip. There was music and dancing all the way.

"It was a nice comfortable ride with that combo and the refreshments," said one student, Joe Novak of Mentor.

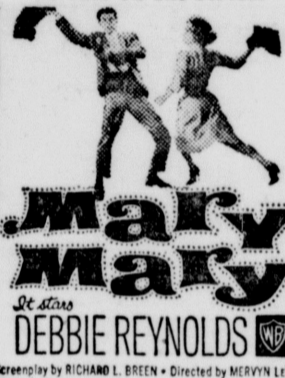

"We were well taken care of,"

A NYC spokesman said the delay was caused by stops to pick up students at towns along the route across Ohio. Students from other colleges, such as Ohio State University and the University of Dayton, also rode the train part way.

As far as the students were concerned, their transportation problems began after the NYC special stopped at the depot of this small Butler County town.

The depot is about three-fourths of a mile from the campus—and Oxford has few taxis. Most of the students had quite a few pieces of luggage.

Some university officials, faculty members and townspeople came to the rescue with cars. A service fraternity provided a truck to haul the suitcases to the dormitories.

Arsonist Sets $1 Million Fire In New York Hotel

NEW YORK (AP)—An arsonist set a fire that swept the Astor Hotel's grand ballroom today, then fled when chased by hotel employees, officials said.

About 400 guests left their rooms as heavy smoke poured through the 11-story hotel, attracting a huge crowd outside the Times Square area landmark. Damage was estimated at $1 million.

"Thank God nobody was hurt," said William Zeckendorf Jr., an official of the Zeckendorf Hotel Corp. chain of which the Astor is part.

Zeckendorf said the heavily damaged ballroom was renovated about two years ago at a cost of nearly $1 million.

Fire commissioner Edward Thompson said the fire was definitely set.

"We have two witnesses who actually saw the man start the fire, and we have a good description of him," Thompson said. "These witnesses chased the man but they lost him."

Time To Patch and Paint When Cracks Creep on Wall

Plaster walls, provided they are dry, may last forever. Yet, they are likely to develop cracks nonetheless.

These are often due to the settling of a house, a process that can go on for a long time. Or damage may result from an accident, such as children playing or someone moving furniture carelessly.

The best time to repair plaster walls is right before painting. Painting will not cover up the cracks. They'll only show through the paint. But painting is necessary after patching, since you will want to cover up the patched area.

USE PATCHING PLASTER. Available at hardware and paint stores. Check the instructions. Some plaster mixes harden more quickly than others. Mix only the amount you can use right away.

Before mixing, prepare the damaged area. Widen the crack enough so that you can get plaster in. Undercut the crack. This will keep the plaster from falling out.

Remove all loose plaster. If it crumbles easily it will not hold the patch.

WET THE SURFACE thoroughly. This prevents the old plaster from drawing all the moisture from the new. Fill the crack with new plaster, but not clear to the surface. Make sure the base of the opening is thoroughly filled—force in the material.

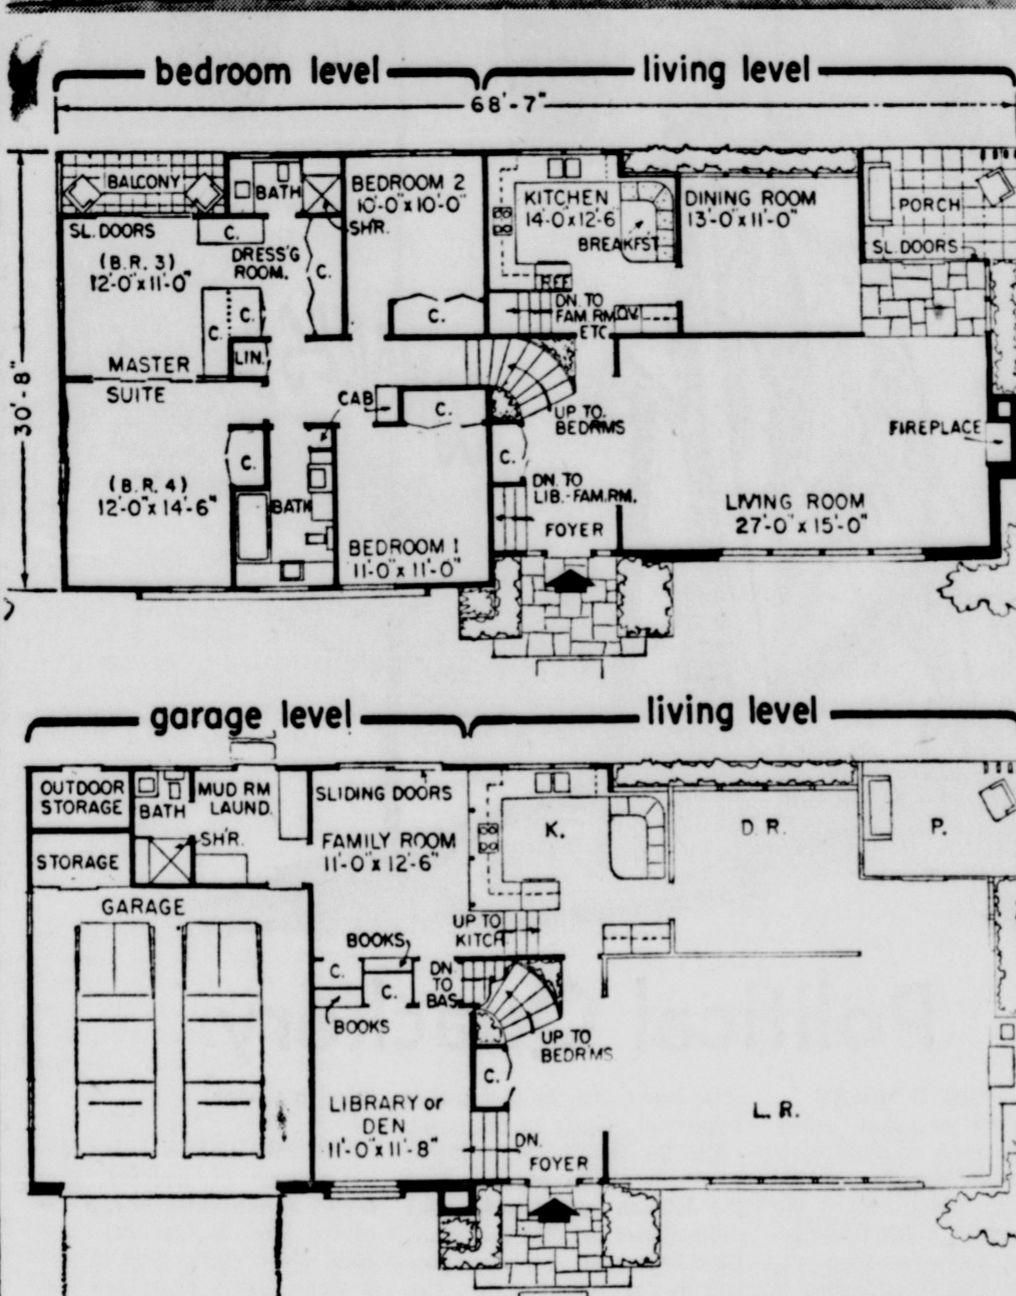

Allow the material to dry. Then apply the rest of the plaster, building up the patch so that it is level with the rest of the surface. Carefully smooth this with a trowel. If you work carefully, you should be able to run your fingers over the area when dry without feeling any difference.

While you can sand the surface if it doesn't come out even, this practice will roughen ordinary patching plaster. If you are not sure of your technique, use spackling compound which can be sanded easily.

SEAL THE NEW SURFACE with shellac. This will prevent dull spots when you paint the wall.

Give the patched area an extra priming coat before painting.

Hairline cracks are often so tiny that they can be patched with a paste of white lead and turpentine. Use a cloth to rub the mixture into the crack. Wipe away the excess while it is still set. Sand when dry.

SIDE-TO-SIDE split level home has garage and basement. Traffic circulation from the front foyer is excellent, left to the library level, ahead to bedroom level and kitchen and right to living room. The 405-square-foot living room provides gracious space for entertaining and uncluttered relaxation. A rear porch allows access to both dining and living room, without going through the other. The master suite has balcony, bedroom and sitting room, which can be used as his and hers units. Access to the library and family room level is from both front and rear of the home—four steps down. ## Hinge Problems Most Often Cause of 'Stick' In Doors

A sticking door is a type of trouble with which nearly everyone has to contend. Folks usually blame the trouble on swelling wood, but there are other causes, so go easy before you begin planning on a course of action.

Wood swells in summer, so if your door is sticking during the winter—when heat is on and the wood is dry—you can be certain that there are other causes.

Even in the summer, take it easy with the plane. Look for some other method of freeing the door or you'll find yourself with a door that breezes come right through during cooler weather.

PLANNING IS SELDOM required, although it is resorted to, too often.

Most trouble can be traced to hinge problems. Either the hinge is loose — or it wasn't mounted properly. Get yourself a screw driver, open the door wide and try each screw. Use a screw driver with a large blade and tighten any screw that seems to be loose. It doesn't take much sagging to make a door bind and tightening up the hinges may free the door.

FREQUENT TIGHTENING often leaves the wood so torn up that screws won't grip anymore. If a large screw won't work or won't fit, fill the hole with a wooden plug or plastic wood. If you use a plug, dip it in glue first. Allow plastic fillers to harden then drill a starter hole.

If tightening doesn't work, you will have to examine the door closely to determine the exact point of binding.

Binding at top can often be cured by shimming the hinge at top—inserting a thin layer of cardboard between the hinge and the wood of the door jamb. Binding that occurs at the bottom of the door can be cured with a shim behind the bottom hinge.

REMOVE THE HINGE pin and lift off the door. Then unscrew the leaf of the hinge that is on the door jamb. Insert a piece of thin cardboard behind and replace the screws. Hang the door. If one piece of cardboard isn't enough, try another. Shimming will also take care of a door that won't close easily outside to the center to avoid splintering the edge.

If door is too wide, remove and do the planing on the hinge side so that the lock won't be affected. You may have to deepen the mortise for the hinge before hanging the door again.

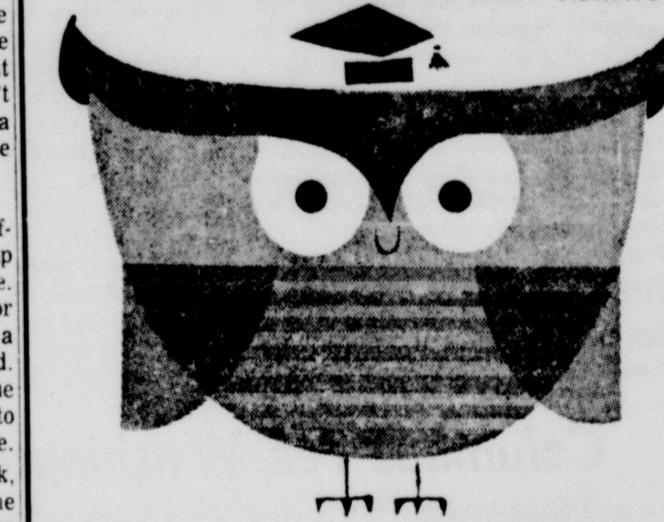

If all else fails, you will have to plane or sand the door. Do this cautiously. If binding occurs at the top, look for the point that makes contact and sand this spot lightly. If that doesn't work, plane the area. When planing the top or bottom of a door, plane from the

Goldwater Had No Choice

Sen. Barry Goldwater says he is running for the Republican presidential nomination, as most of his fellow citizens believed he would be when the right time came.

The Arizona had no choice if he was taking himself seriously. Either he had to seize the tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads to fortune, or step aside as a contender for leadership.

He was 55 years old on Jan. 1. The next president of the United States can be expected to serve two terms, as can all presidents now that a two-term limit has been written into the Constitution. Time was running out.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, the contender Sen. Goldwater has pledged himself to block this year, already is off and running. The Republican party's titular leader, Dwight D. Eisenhower, has been urging everybody and his brother to try for the nomination, though he had no personal appetite for competition in 1952, it is recalled.

Moreover, the conservative element of the Republican party had shown more interest—both ideological and financial—in a Goldwater candidacy than had been shown for any candidate since Democrats became the majority party.

If there ever had been a time, this was it.

THE ASSASSINATION of President Kennedy and the elevation of Lyndon G. Johnson to the presidency hurt Sen. Goldwater's prospects in the forthcoming national election. But what has been foolishly overlooked is that they hurt his prospects no more than they hurt the prospects of any other Republican who might get the nomination. And Sen. Goldwater, unlike the others, has the ready-made backing of many ultra-conservative Republicans.

We have no idea how the senator's bid will turn out, but we feel it will be good for the Republican party for him to make it with full backing by his friends. We have faith in the two-party system and in the intraparty struggles that make the system work so well.

When Ohio's Robert A. Taft was the spokesman and symbol of Republican conservatism, we backed his bids for a presidential nomination and regretted the me-too candidacies of Thomas E. Dewey. We believe Sen. Goldwater, to quote his own words, would be a "choice, not an echo." We think voters are entitled to a choice.

WHETHER Barry Goldwater can win his party's nomination is a problem for the GOP convention delegates who must make the difficult decision.

Whether he thereafter could pin his Democratic opponent to the mat is a problem for voters.

But of this much we feel certain—that any Republican who thinks he can do better will find himself humping because Barry Goldwater, the man to beat, now is in the race officially.

Columbus Yes, Washington No

We can't blame Ohioans if they're mystified after witnessing state and national lawmakers in action in 1963.

On the one hand was the 105th Ohio General Assembly. It breezed through its biennial work load in a little more than six months and enacted a raft of important laws.

On the other hand was the 88th Congress. It slogged its way to a peacetime record for length of session and could count only a few major accomplishments after finally calling it quits late last month.

What might puzzle Ohioans most about this is that both legislative bodies contained lopsided majorities of the chief executive's political party—Democrats in Congress, Republicans in the General Assembly. But there was a striking difference in the way the majorities treated the executives' programs.

OHIO REPUBLICANS responded quickly and favorably to the wishes of a Republican governor. Congressional Democrats balked hard at the programs of a Democratic president.

Although many theories are heard, we think one fact explains the difference: Lawmakers are sensitive to the wishes of the people who elect them.

That made things easy for Gov. Rhodes. He sailed into office on a cushion of nearly 500,000 votes, and carried 85 of Ohio's 88 counties. Republicans who control the General Assembly found it easy and politically feasible to accept a program already endorsed by a substantial majority of the electorate.

IT WAS A MUCH different story for the late President Kennedy.

Where James A. Rhodes won by landslide proportions, the Kennedy-Johnson ticket won by a whisker.

There was no clear mandate from the nation's voters in the 1960 presidential election.

Add to this the fact Mr. Kennedy's program to move the nation came at a time of relative prosperity when the people weren't clamoring for a change, and you have the major reason for reluctance in Congress, in contrast with alacrity in Ohio.

Paxson Changes Hands

Robert Potter and A. S. Burgoyne, two of the business executives who have purchased the Paxson Machine Co., a 43-year-old Salem industry, are no strangers to the local industrial scene and can be expected to embark on an aggressive program to help the firm grow and prosper in the years ahead.

The community extends to Don Rodebaugh, company president, and the plant's other two officers a sincere expression of hope for a record year in '64, their first under the reorganization program.

Ring In the New

Political Quackery

By RAYMOND MOLEY

It's unfortunate that before the Ecumenical Council completed its deliberations, it did not add an eighth sin to the seven which as a boy I was required to memorize from my catechism. This is, according to Webster, "the practices and pretensions of a quack"; a quack being a "pretender" to medical skill which is not there. The medical profession has spoken and acted against quacks since the days of Hippocrates.

Quackery is an especially cruel offense against innocent fellow beings. In practice it offers the promise, for profit of course, to afflicted individuals of a "cure" through means that cannot be justified by scientific tests or experience. While the victim is using the supposed methods of treatment which are not spectacular but are genuine and helpful.

IN EVERY legitimate organization dedicated to conquering one or another of the diseases that afflict the human race, the utmost care is taken to excite nothing but rational hopes of relief.

Politics, as we all know, has no such ethical bars against raising false expectations. Promises are made which under rational examination prove to be impossible of fulfillment. For the most part, the cynicism of promises is a measurable protection against the danger of false hopes. But the fact is that some will believe in nostrums.

It's in the general realm of this unfortunate practice that the Johnson administration has promulgated the idea that plans have been made to abolish poverty in the United States. Unfortunately, many members of the press, including some widely read and widely heard commentators, perhaps because this is an interim when news is so scarce, have fallen for this old gag.

IT'S OLD because Julius Caesar, a consummate demagogue, won his imperial way in Roman politics by feeding the multitude out of the riches he purloined from the provinces he conquered and out of the riches of the patricians he killed and robbed. For a while the beneficiaries of Caesar's largesse had a wonderful time.

But poverty remained, and the Roman character deteriorated while Caesar's successors wallowed in gaudy luxury.

Ultimately, those deluded people were conquered by the sturdy minions of the provinces the Caesars had conquered.

I regard with enthusiasm the fact that because of our economic growth, wise philanthropy, and the humane actions of our government the well-being of Americans has risen spectacularly in the past century. And the end of improvement is not yet, if we avoid political nostrums.

THE PROMISE of extinguishing poverty is, however, presented as something new, a discovery by a political regime which claims that it, and it alone, has a heart and has discovered humane virtue.

We are told that because one-third (some say one-fourth) of our families have an income of less than $3,000 a year, they are preface poor.

Those statistics and the inferences they convey are pulled out of the air. Many families with such incomes are living comfortably. They do not call themselves poor. In alleviating needs we must consider individual cases.

The political motivations of this "new" proposal to abolish poverty will be clear when the budget is submitted this month. Faced by the spending of something more than $100 billion, this administration cannot cut welfare programs already in existence.

THAT WOULD BE fatal in an election year. So in submitting a long list of requests, someone thought up and President Johnson suggested the idea of packaging all these with a nice and alluring generality. "The abolition of poverty." Why? Everybody wants that. But Americans should realize that the coming program is merely "the same, but more."

Congress Irked

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Congress has come and gone—but in an unhappy mood. Resentment is privately expressed by a number of the members.

They do not see any reason why they should have been called back here under presidential pressure after they had gone to their districts for the Christmas recess.

Again and again senators and representatives have said privately that the foreign aid bill could just as well have waited until January 7, because there was ample money in the till to carry on these operations. Expressions of disapproval were numerous in both parties.

It's too early to say how much of an effect this is going to have on the fortunes of the Johnson administration in the future, but it would not be surprising if there were outcroppings of dissatisfaction here and there when the new session starts.

The calling back of Congress is, of course, a two-sided controversy. Actually, from a legislative standpoint, immediate action on the foreign aid bill was not necessary.

President Johnson, however, was repeatedly told by his advisers it would make an unfortunate impression abroad if he did not come out on top in a showdown with Congress at this time. It was supposed to be vital to his prestige and influence in world affairs.

WEIGHING, therefore, the inconvenience involved in disrupting the family plans of members of Congress as against the desirability of presenting a favorable image in Europe, the administration chose to pressure Congress to put through the measure before adjourning.

One major effect of the episode has been to focus attention on President Johnson's relations with Congress and the methods he may use hereafter in trying to get his way.

One senator—after a conversation with the President on a subject pertaining to his own state—is reported to have told colleagues that the President was very graceful about it but did not fail to mention that he expected a bit of help himself on Capitol Hill.

The friction over the amendment to the foreign aid bill which would put certain restrictions on lending to Communist countries is an example of the kind of cleavage that may occur again and again.

Congress likes to manifest its independence. Many members feel, moreover, that in the coming political campaign the sale of wheat to Russia will be an important issue. If the administration, under the discretionary powers just voted to it, does go through with its plan to help finance the transaction with government credit, there will be more criticism heard.

MEANWHILE, Congress is getting ready for a big battle when the sessions are resumed on Jan. 7. No subjects are more complicated than the tax bill and the civil rights measure. Amendments galore will be offered to each one. Neither bill will be passed without several weeks of debate. There also is bound to be an accumulation of political grievances growing out of various aspects of the legislation.

Up to now, the foreign aid bill has been the only really controversial question in which President Johnson has become involved. The issue of fiscal economy has yet to crystallize. All the talk has been in more or less unintelligible language as far as the public is concerned. For there is a difference between the amount authorized to be spent and the actual appropriation of public funds. The President wisely has talked a good deal about economy and the importance of holding down expenses, but the opinion of competent observers is that the amount of the budget will be around the $100-billion mark just the same.

EVERY ADMINISTRATION does a lot of budget-cutting in theory. This usually happens when the Treasury estimates have been submitted to the president and before they are formally sent to Congress.

Congress itself, however, has to do the actual cutting job. There are signs that economy will be a major issue this year and that Congress will attack the budget on many items.

The original argument for a tax-reduction bill was that a business recession would thereby be avoided.

Now that business is supposed to be going ahead into something of a boom, Congress might just take it upon itself to do a little cutting of tax rates beyond the administration proposals and still not run up a bigger deficit than was planned. There is a temptation, too, to modify various rules and regulations that limit taxpayers' deductions.

Congress has been represented as at odds with the Kennedy administration on many issues, and lately the impression has been given that President Johnson, because of his experience in the legislative body, will get along better with Congress than did his predecessor. This view is questioned by those who believe Congress is reflecting a discontent prevalent throughout the country, not only over high taxes but over excessive expenditures by the federal government.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

That was an interesting conjecture about whether you should try a belly-slam on a sled at your age. I think you should try it. We could sell a lot of tickets and get quite a crowd.

You once knew all these things, but if it has been so long since you tried a belly-slam it might be well to refresh your memory.

Don't try a belly-slam on fresh snow unless there is some ice under it, otherwise the sled will stay where it lands and you will go ankle over clavicle and wonder what happen.

Be careful your legs don't hit the back edge of the sled just above your knees or you will be nursing bruises.

Your description of your old coasting place when you were a boy reminded me of Myers Hill, where we used to coast in winter. It was sort of horseshoe-shaped like an amphitheater and two guys would start at either side and meet just before the bottom of the hill and see which one could upset the other's sled.

The snow provided a soft covering on the ground and, being dressed to stay warm for hours outdoors, we had on about as much padding as a football player so there never were any casualties, although it is surprising when you think about it.

At the bottom of the hill were some ridges running across the line of travel so if you had enough speed you could get some jumps on your sled. Sometimes we built up these ridges and managed to lift our sleds off the ground for a distance of a few feet before landing again. Sort of a backyard Olympics.

Here is something you never thought of: the busiest period of the year for that telephone number you dial to get the right time is at Christmas when everybody who got a watch as a gift wants to check up the accuracy of the new timepiece.

All these light new blankets of snow we are getting these days provide an excellent opportunity to study nature by reading tracks in the fresh snow. This might be particularly interesting for youngsters but even oldtimers like you and I can enjoy it.

In the city you may find sparrow, cat and dog tracks, besides people tracks, and you could try out for a job with Kit Carson by testing your tracking ability. In the country you have a greater variety, such as pheasant, rabbit, quail, and sparrow and mouse tracks which sometimes are hard to tell apart. You could become famous as Tracker Twill if you set your mind to it.

There has always seemed to be something lacking in ads for automatic electric meat slicers, which have been frequent lately, and it finally dawned on me what it is:

The ads always say something like: "It slices by itself, all you have to do is guide it." And that is where the rub comes — why should you have to guide it.

So here is my idea: our modern science and technology should be able to marry the principle of inertial guidance to one of those gadgets so you wouldn't have to go to all the trouble of guiding it.

Just push a couple buttons on a minute mechanical brain on the thing to set a predetermined course and turn it loose, letting the gyroscope gizmo guide it inertially. Remember you read it here first!

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The man I loved and trusted and invested three whole years in took his ring back and I broke our engagement last night.

The trouble was started by Kenny's best friend whom I never liked. This friend resented me from the beginning because after I came into the picture Kenny didn't pa around with him "like old times." At first this friend tried to horn in and make it a threesome but when I wouldn't tolerate it, he began his dirty work.

A few days ago he told Kenny a vicious lie about me. When I tried to explain to Kenny that there was no truth in the story he said, "I'm sorry, but one of you is lying and I think it's you."

Please tell me how to get Kenny back. I'm heartsick. Ann. This is all so unfair. — BLUE BLUE NIGHTS.

Dear Blue: You need Kenny like a giraffe needs a srep throat. A guy who would have so little confidence in his girl is not worth worrying about.

Birthday Kisses

Dear Ann: I'm writing about the 14-year-old neighbor girl who baked the birthday cake for the man next door and gave him a nice big birthday kiss in front of everybody.

You seemed to think it was just ducky, and in fact you made his wife sound like a jealous old witch. I would like to acquaint you with the facts of life. Ann Landers. Fourteen-year-old girls aren't what they used to be.

Our daughter is 14 years old and could pass for 18 any day. If I ever caught her kissing the man next door whether it was his birthday or the Fourth of July, I'd give her a crack she'd never forget. Our son is 15 and he'd better not kiss the neighbor's wife, either.

When my sister's husband ran off with their 15-year-old baby sitter two years ago I changed all my notions about how old kids are before they get ideas. I think it's time YOU woke up and smelled the coffee, Old Girl. —WITH IT.

Dear With: Just what it is you're "with" 'm not sure but I suspect you have a fairly low opinion of most young people.

A 14-year-old neighbor girl who bakes a cake and bestows a birthday kiss in the presence of a neighbor's family is no Lolita in my book. The advice stands.

Dear Ann Landers: Please keep encouraging girls as well as boys to get a high school diploma and then go on and get some sort of training which will enable them to earn a living later in life if they have to.

I knew it all. Nobody could tell me anything. My husband was 22 and had a college degree. I was beautiful and sweet and he didn't think it was important for me to stay in high school and get my diploma. Why should I have to know anything? He would take care of me for the rest of my life!

So, my heavy-hearted father walked me down the aisle and I was married at 17.

We had three children in six years. I devoted myself to my family. My husband went to night school and got a master's degree in business administration. Strange that he appreciated the value of education for himself — but not for me.

Five weeks ago my husband dropped dead of heart attack at the age of 42. He left $15,000 in insurance and a $20,000 mortgage on our home, plus some big bills.

I have three children to send to college within the next five years. I must go to work but I'm not trained for anything. I realize now as never before the necessity of preparing for the future, since none of us knows what it may bring.

Please print this letter as a warning for someone who had to learn the hard way.—SAD SANDRA.

Dear Sandra: Many thanks for your letter. I hope the thousands of young girls see it and take the hint.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Knife Slaying Of Millionaire Under Probe

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Police today probed the slaying of multimillionaire William W. Bartholomae, seeking to unravel the chain of events that left him stabbed to death in his luxurious bayfront home.

Booked on suspicion of murdering the 70-year-old yachtsman was his brother's wife, Carmen Gallardo Bartholomae, 25, a former Spanish dancer.

Hospitalized with a severely cut hand was Carmen's sister, Minola Gallardo, 32.

Bartholomae, whose cattle, oil and mining fortune was estimated at $11 million, was found Sunday morning with two stab wounds in his abdomen.

On the floor beside him was his sister-in-law, who later told police she had fainted.

Between them lay the blood-smeared blade of an eight-inch butcher knife.

Police said Carmen gave this account:

When Bartholomae, wearing a bathrobe and pajamas, entered the kitchen, Carmen was standing at the kitchen sink preparing breakfast.

"He didn't look good," she said.

She said she remembers holding two knives and seeing Bartholomae "tumbling" before she fainted.

She remembers nothing more until she awoke later in a hospital.

Informed that Bartholomae had died, Carmen told Police Chief James Glavas:

"He was such a good man. He was so good to Charles and me."

Carmen was hospitalized under police guard.

Adding to the mystery was a coroner's report which said that Bartholomae, in addition to the stab wounds, had numerous scratches, "possibly from fingernails," on his neck, face, arms, hands and chest.

Police could offer no motive immediately for the slaying.

School Board to Organize Tonight

A temporary three-month appropriation is expected to be acted on tonight by the Board of Education at its annual reorganization meeting.

Last year's January appropriation submitted to the board by Supt. of Schools Paul E. Smith totaled $1,446,359, or $34,655 less than the 1962 budget.

Board members Gail C. Heron, Atty. Bryce W. Kendall, Dr. Ralph Starbuck, Robert W. Campbell and new member John Herman Jr. will be presented copies of the temporary appropriation figures before final action is taken, probably at the February meeting.

Also up for discussion are the employment of a new staff member to replace one resigning, heating problems at the schools, and bus transportation problems in the west part of Perry Township.

A new president and vice-president will be elected and a clerk re-appointed. Meeting date, time and place will also be set. The policy-making body has been meeting the past year on the third Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Junior High School library.

Old business will be dispensed with at the opening of the session with retiring president and board member O. A. Naragon officiating for the last time after 12 years of service. The old board will then adjourn while clerk-treasurer W. N. King presides at the election. The newly-elected president will then conduct new business.

Rights Bill Top Issue As Congress Opens Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opens Tuesday what promises to be a politically charged election year session with the emotion-packed civil rights issue offering an acid test of President Johnson's leadership.

Johnson is expected to place heavy emphasis on passage of a broad civil rights measure opening new doors to Negroes along with an $11 billion tax cut, health care for the elderly and other domestic proposals in his State of the Union message Wednesday.

These are leftover items from the Kennedy administration. To them Johnson is expected to add some proposals of his own and perhaps some specifics of his promised war on poverty.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield warned his colleagues as they concluded the marathon 1963 session Dec. 30 that it was "just a beginning" of the 88th Congress and that the second session would confront them with "some of the most difficult decisions which this or any Congress is likely to be required to reach."

The House Rules Committee begins hearings on civil rights Thursday. If they drag on, advocates of the bill are expected to push a discharge petition to bring it before the House. The petition had been signed by 170 of the necessary members when the House adjourned.

The House finally passed the tax cut measure Sept. 25 after long committee sessions and behind-the-scenes maneuvers. The Senate Finance Committee resumes work on the bill Wednesday with more than half of the 56 amendments proposed since House passage still to be considered.

Congress is going back to work after an eight-day breather. It's 1964 timetable is complicated by the fact that the national political conventions will be held this summer.

"If we do not move faster," Mansfield said Sunday on the NBC television program "Sunday," "it will very likely mean that we will have to come back to the session after the conventions and we are apt to have another 12-month Congress."

Mansfield has said the administration - supported Social Security - financed health care for the aged plan will be pressed at this session. The House Ways and Means Committee, still reported predominantly opposed to the plan, resumes hearings on the legislation Jan. 20.

"I wish I had not gone over there," sobbed a 43-year-old West Berlin optician after returning from a reunion with his wife. "The parting with my wife was horrible. We don't know when we will see each other again."

A worker who returned with his wife and baby after seeing his parents said: "We cried and cried. The wounds were opened again. We had become used to being separated from my mother and father... of course, my (grandmother) was happy, but the farewell... please don't ask me any more."

"Enough tears flowed during these days to wash the wall away," said one West Berliner. Elevated trains coming from East Berlin's Friedrich Strasse station were packed tightly for the first time in years. The people were quiet or talked only in low voices. The eyes of many women were red from crying.

CLUB WON'T MEET

The Travelers Club meeting scheduled for Tuesday afternoon has been cancelled.

Wall

The Western Allies, who are responsible for the security of West Berlin, have given their blessings to the talks. But they have warned Mayor Willy Brandt not to jeopardize the Western stand against recognition of the East German Communist regime.

The Communists have tried to use previous talks to support their theory that there are three Germanys—East, West and a "free city" of Berlin.

They have also been using the reunions to feed their propaganda mill, claiming the crossings were made possible by Communist humanitarianism.

Under the expired agreement, only West Berliners with close relatives were permitted to make the crossings. For many it was their first family reunion since construction of the wall Aug. 13, 1961.

Goldwater, who calls the United Nations "a debating society, at best," said in Hartford, Conn., Oct. 24 that the United States should stay in the world body and try to improve it.

Salem Whips Alliance 80-54 For Season's 1st Win

3 Quakers' Stars Share 59 Points

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

Hustle and determination contributed to Salem's initial triumph of the campaign as the Quakers (1-5) knocked off Alliance (0-7) 80-54 in Ohio Big 8 Conference clash at Senior High gymnasium Saturday night.

"I was pleased with the desire shown by our kids," declared coach John Cabas. "We looked like Salem of old."

"For the first time this season, we had balanced scoring; our offense worked and the players were confident and displayed plenty of poise," commented the Quakers' boss.

The Red and Black threw a press at the Aviators, and the defensive maneuver worked so effectively that it caused the visitors to make 34 turnovers.

Another job well done was the Quakers' ability to hold Ron Ross, who had a double-figure average for Alliance going into the game, to a foul shot made in the third quarter.

UNCANNY SHOOTING from the foul line gave the Red and Black 30 points. The Quakers missed only nine free throws, for a spectacular 76.8 per cent.

Although Alliance had a slight advantage in height, the Quakers managed to hold their own with the visitors on the boards, pulling down 56 rebounds, compared to 49 for the Aviators.

A push-shot by Dick Hamilton, 6-1 junior, swished the nets and gave Alliance its only lead 2-0 with 22 seconds gone in the initial quarter.

Wayne "Binks" Washington, who just about equalled his top scoring output of the season, tied the score for Salem 2-2. A basket by George Begalla put the Quakers ahead to stay.

While the Red and Black raced to 19 points the first six minutes, Alliance managed to make six markers. At the end of the frame, the Quakers led 25-12.

COACH WARREN BINDER'S aggregation scored in spurts. Trailing 32-16, Salem let up a little bit, and the Aviators took advantage of the situation to chalk up 10 points and cut the deficit to 32-26.

Not to be denied their first victory, the Quakers again took control of the game and at intermission the Red and Black held a 41-23 margin.

Early in the third frame, Salem's Begalla and Washington split eight points to give the Cabasmen a 20-point bulge 51-31. At the end of the session, the winners led 60-40.

The first two minutes of the final frame, the visitors rallied to cut the deficit to 1 markers. With five minutes left to go Cabas started to empty his bench.

Rick Gregg and Chuck Joseph each left the contest with five personal fouls charged against them with less than four minutes remaining.

FROM THE FIELD, Salem hit its high for the campaign, canning 25 of 65 attempted shots for 38.4 per cent.

Alliance hit on only 15 of 52 field goal attempts for a meager 28.8 per cent. The Aviators went to the foul line 43 times and tossed in 24 free throws for 55.8 per cent.

Joseph, starting for the first time, led the Quakers in the rebounding department as he cleared the boards 11 times. Begalla and Jim Lantz pulled down eight apiece.

Bill Schneider, 6-4 junior, led the Aviators with 21 points. He also hauled in 19 rebounds. Three of Salem's attempted shots were blocked, and the Quakers made 16 turnovers, which included a few passes thrown away, and double dribble three times.

Patterson In Comeback Bout Today

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson today enters a road which he hopes will lead to another chance at the world heavyweight boxing title.

Patterson, who lost his title to Sonny Liston, has prepared carefully for the match against Italian heavyweight champion Sante Amonti. He has spent some weeks in the famous Swedish sports training resort of Valadalen far north where he did his roadwork, plodding through deep snow, and even went skiing for the first time of his life.

Edwin Ahlqvist is promoting the boxing gala which will start at 11 a.m. EST. He reports a sellout but is, as usual, very tight-lipped about estimated income from movie- and television rights.

Amonti, who last month fought more than 300 sparring rounds, says he is in top shape and eager to meet the ex-world champ.

Patterson, who is very popular in this country although he whipped Sweden's Ingemar Johansson twice, also says he is ready for the match.

"I feel at home here. All the Swedes are very kind and wishing me good luck. I have got more than 4,000 fan letters from Swedes and would like to fight my next bout here too."

Hunting Club Takes Stand On Firearms Issue

The Salem Hunting Club has taken a stand against two measures introduced by national legislators concerning the sale and shipment of firearms.

One resolution introduced in the House of Representatives by Wayne L. Hays restricts shipments of firearms to only manufacturers and dealers and makes the law of concealable firearms apply to mailing or delivery.

Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut introduced a measure which would make it mandatory that "a purchaser of a firearm must contain in his order the name of the chief local law enforcement officer by registered mail, return receipt requested."

The Hunting Club has urged that all sportsmen and gun owners write their congressmen and senators protesting the above measures.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

There was a fellow telling me the other night that all the roads were open to the Country Store in spite of the drifting snow we had. He wanted to know if we had new officials around here.

The people who are in charge of the township roads worked right through the holidays to keep the roads open. We give them a rough time if there is something the matter with the roads so we should have time to thank them when they go out of their way to do such a good job.

The county and state boys did a good job also and we appreciate it.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Types of Ulcers Puzzle Many

Q—What are the differences between a duodenal, a gastric and a peptic ulcer? What are the symptoms of each? With proper care, how long does healing of these ulcers take?

Dr. Brandstadt

A—A peptic ulcer may be an ulcer in the duodenum (just beyond the outlet of the stomach or gastric (in the stomach itself). This convenient grouping under one name is used because the symptoms are the same for both kinds of ulcers. For the most part, the treatment is also the same.

The duodenal is by far the more common and the more likely to be benign. It is not unusual for a peptic ulcer with proper treatment to heal in about two weeks. But, because recurrences are common, the victim must observe dietary and other precautions, such as avoidance of emotional upsets, for an indefinite period.

Q—I am a middle-aged woman and I have trouble sleeping. Would a small dose of paregoric, taken every night before retiring, do any harm?

A—Paregoric has one active ingredient, opium. Its greatest value is in the treatment of diarrhea. You should certainly not take even a small dose routinely. There are far better ways of achieving sound sleep.

A glass of warm milk before retiring helps some people. The simplest but most neglected method is physical exercise. It also helps to learn to relax all your muscles and not to worry about whether you are going to sleep or not.

Q—My doctor says I have lichen simplex. X-ray treatment didn't do any good. I've had it for three years now. Is there any effective treatment?

A—When a person has persistent itching and rubs it frequently over a long period, the skin may become dry and thickened. This is what has happened to you. The cause of the underlying itching is often unknown, but emotional stress may be a factor. The rubbing gets to be an unconscious habit and the victim may rub the itching areas during sleep.

Women are more often affected than men. A favorite location is the back of the neck, but any part of the body may be affected.

X-ray treatment usually helps. Some victims can be cured merely by having the nature of the disease explained, impressing on them the need to refrain from rubbing or scratching, and the application of a soothing preparation such as calamine lotion to allay the itching. A short course of hydrocortisone has also been known to cure this condition, but recurrences are common.

The Dutch have transformed the Zuider Zee into a freshwater lake and reclaimed thousands of submerged acres. New areas are being diked and drained behind a 20-mile dam holding back the North Sea, a project which has been described as equivalent to damming Long Island Sound and filling in two-thirds of its 1,200 square miles.

Shaw, New ASC Manager, Knows Farm Problems Well

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

LISBON — Clifford Shaw, who operates a 120-acre general farm and deals in machinery west of town on the Lincoln Highway, will bring years of experience to the job when he takes over this week as new Columbiana County office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Joseph Landron of the state ASC office will be here this week to talk with Shaw to determine how much training Shaw will undergo before he begins his actual duties as office manager. The usual training period may be reduced because of the new manager's long experience in ASC circles.

Shaw got into the act almost from the inception of Roosevelt's farm plan—the Agricultural Adjustment Act—which FDR hoped would end farm woes.

UNDER THIS ACT in 1936 the Agricultural Conservation Program was begun and Shaw came in as a Center Township alternate committeeman until 1941. During that period he measured scale lines for aerial photos taken of Center Township land parcels.

In 1941 he was named alternate member of the county ASC committee when Glen Bates of RD, Salem, was chairman. Shaw was elected chairman in 1943 after Bates became a state ASCS field man. He served as chairman until 1952, then dropped out for three years. He was re-elected in 1955 and has served as chairman ever since.

SHAW SAYS PLANS ARE in the offing this year for the first aerial survey of Columbiana County since the early 1950's. The new pictures will show contours, terraces, ponds and other changes that have been made in the past decade.

"We'll also push 'pre-measuring' starting this year," the new manager said. By use of aerial photos, the farmer and ASCS workers can figure exactly how much acreage is in a given field and consequently know how much to plant to be within government regulations on restricted acreage crops. The system can be used for accurately figuring wheat plantings and acreage diverted from crops to grassland for which a farmer is paid.

COLUMBIANA COUNTY in the past has not promoted pre-measuring farmland. In tobacco country as in Kentucky, pre-measuring has been used extensively. With use of pre-measuring, some growers have been known to plant a half row of tobacco in an attempt to get as much of the high-value crop planted as possible within government-approved limits.

Shaw said that few farmers in Columbiana County over-planted their allotments last year.

The new manager and his staff will be busy about the first of February signing up farmers under the feed-grain program. Then about April 1 wheat acreage will be checked for those growers who requested measurement.

Shaw has replaced retired Earl Lora of Salem as office manager. Meanwhile, former performance supervisor, Carl Daiger of RD, Lisbon, has been named on the county committee to replace Shaw. Bates was elevated again to chairman and Wilson Yaggi of Knox Township is vice-chairman. A replacement for Daiger as performance supervisor, whose job is to check wheat acreages, will be made later.

There are four women in the ASC office: Mrs. Thelma Clark of Salem, who has some 17 years of service; Mrs. Irene Kelch, Mrs. Harry Bowman and Mrs. Ellen Pittenger, all of the Lisbon area.

POOR AFTER STABBING MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — James Jack Caldwell, 16, was reported in poor condition in the Ohio State Reformatory hospital here today with wounds he received in a stabbing incident Saturday.

Caldwell, of Mansfield, is serving a 15 year term for breaking and entering and grand larceny. Associate Supt. Benjamin Cooper said the stabbing apparently came during a quarrel over cigarettes. No assailant was named pending an investigation.

17 ARE SUBPOENED YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Seventeen new witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear before the Mahoning County grand jury, which convenes Tuesday to continue its racket probe.

This and That

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A hosiery manufacturer estimates the average American woman wears out 13 pairs of stockings a year.

The old-fashioned male who still believes woman's place is in the kitchen may be dismayed to learn that our girls spend some nine million hours a week in the nation's beauty shops.

Paying the bills for Santa Claus this month may dismay you but it is a fact that the Christmas season of good will does really lift the human spirit. December has fewer suicides than any other month.

In this troubled world it's nice to know that one of the pamphlets you can buy from the U.S. Government Printing Office is "Problems of Present Day Poetry in Rumania."

In the Soviet Union one person in every 458 owns an automobile — in the United States one out of three.

Hippopotamus meat may be canned commercially. Experimenters say it is less tasty than beef but contains more protein and goes down well with rice and a touch of curry.

The easiest way to tell the difference between weeds and young plants worth keeping is to pull up everything. If they come up again they're weeds.

Mistletoe hung over a doorway is an invitation to a kiss in English-speaking lands. In France it was once used as an antidote for poisons and in Scandinavian countries mistletoe was supposed to protect the household from fire.

Some medical authorities be-
